October 19, 2006 Dinner Meeting

"The Cost Effectiveness of the Calgary Science Buildings Project"

Historically, funding at the University of Calgary for specific program space has never all come at the same time and the challenge has been to pre-prepare space to allow space to be developed for programs as the funding is acquired. The (Health Research Innovation Centre) HRIC was conceived to allow sequential development that would tie logically to the existing complex of the Health Sciences Centre (HSC) and Heritage Medical Research Building (HMRB). This talk discusses how the HRIC was developed to suit this need and what evolved was a very flexible interstitial research laboratory container that is now being successfully developed as funding is available.

Gary Duke, Duke Projects Inc., and Ken Johnson, Cohos Evamy, will give the presentation.

Please register your attendance with APEGGA Tel 403-262-7714 at least one day prior to event.
