January 17, 2008 Dinner Meeting

Partnering with the Project Management Institute Calgary Chapter

"Risk Distribution in Today's Construction Market"

by Dr. George Jergeas, P.Eng., U of C

Abstract:

Dr. Jergeas will review the current practice of risk allocation in the construction industry. He will also discuss the engineer's roles and liabilities. The limitation of liability by building trust-based relationships will be covered. He will focus on defining clear and common goals, project health checks, and well-defined issue resolution mechanisms.

Practical examples from recent Alberta Infrastructure and Transportation projects will be referenced throughout the presentation

About the Speaker:

Dr. George Jergeas is a civil engineer and a professor of project management at the University of Calgary. His teaching and professional interests are in claims and disputes, negotiation, partnering and project management training.

Please register your attendance with APEGGA at 262-7714 at least one day prior to event.
