

Common reactions after a critical incident

Critical incidents are unexpected, unusual events perceived by an individual as threatening or traumatic. They are often sudden, outside our normal frame of reference and a challenge to our ability to cope. If you experience a critical incident, you can have a wide range of reactions. It is important to remember:

- Your reaction is your reaction
- You might react differently to different situations at different times
- There is no right way to react

Common reactions

Emotional

- Disbelief
- Anger or irritability
- Grief/sadness
- Fear
- Numbness
- Feelings of helplessness
- Guilt and/or feelings of shame
- Anxiety
- Yearning
- Loneliness

Cognitive

- Difficulty concentrating or loss of focus
- Intrusive flashbacks, memories of event
- Decreased trust
- Memory challenges
- Searching for blame or responsibility
- Ruminating on choices made
- Taking responsibility for things that weren't known or within one's control
- Searching for meaning

Physical

- Fatigue
- Physical Exhaustion
- Lack of energy
- Changes to appetite or weight
- Changes in sleep patterns
- Digestive upset
- Feeling dizzy or lightheaded
- Headache
- Heart palpitations
- Aches and pains

Behavioral

- Social withdrawal or isolation
- Dreams or nightmares
- Seeking closeness with loved ones
- Returning to old coping patterns
- Pacing/body agitation or restlessness
- Seeking people to talk to about the experience

Spiritual

- Seeking meaning of life and purpose
- Spiritual confusion and possibly estrangement
- Strengthened or renewed spirituality
- Feeling abandoned by spiritual connection

Additional supports are needed when:

- Your reactions are feeling particularly strong and persisting over time
- Your reactions are increasing in intensity, rather than decreasing over time
- You feel out of control, or your activities of daily living are being negatively affected
- Your own coping and support resources aren't helping you to find a resolution

What you can do to help others:

- Listen with an open mind, acknowledge their thoughts and feelings
- Accept that they may need time and space
- Offer to lend a hand with everyday tasks
- Point out there are resources and supports available to help
- Respect their privacy, and only reach out on their behalf with their consent, or if you are concerned about imminent safety
