HISTORY OF MEDICINE DAYS MARCH 25th & 26th 2022 31st Annual VIRTUAL Conference

Call for Presentations

Undergraduate and early graduate students from across Canada, the United States, and Overseas are invited to submit an abstract for an oral or poster presentation on the history of medicine and health care. The presentations will be 10 to 12 minutes for oral or 2 to 3 minutes for a poster (with additional discussion time afterwards). The poster display will be up for the entire conference.

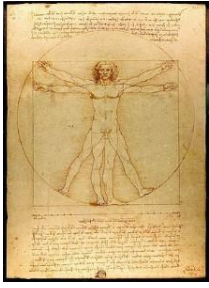

The topics for presentation will cover a wide range and include areas such as the Classics, the History of Public Health, Nursing, Veterinary Medicine, Human Biology and Neuroscience, etc. Prizes will be awarded in different categories and all active participants are invited to join us at the Awards Event on the last day of the conference.

Each presenter must offer an original historical research attempt with new methodological perspectives on the topic and/or have a critical discussion following the presentation.

If three to four participants would like to present together on a related topic, this could be done in a panel form. A suitable discussant will then be identified by the conference organizers to comment upon these particular presentations. We ask, however, that presentations and poster abstracts be sent in by one author only, not multiple authors.

Please note: Due to the current COVID-19 Pandemic, this conference will be held (partially) virtually through Zoom, with a hybrid model dependent on the COVID-developments as they are closely monitored until next March.

The Keynote Speaker will be Dr. Samuel K. Cohn (University of Glasgow, Scotland), who presents on a topic from the long history of epidemics and epidemiology. The final title will be advertised with the preliminary conference program early in 2022.
