McGill-Queen’s/Associated Medical Services Studies in the History of Medicine, Health, and Society
Series editors: J.T.H. Connor and Erika Dyck

This series presents books in the history of medicine, health studies, and social policy, exploring interactions between the institutions, ideas, and practices of medicine and those of society as a whole. To begin to understand these complex relationships and their history is a vital step to ensuring the protection of a fundamental human right: the right to health.

McGill-Queen’s welcomes inquiries from authors. If you have a project that you think might fit into this series, we invite you to visit our website or contact acquisition editor, Kyla Madden at kyla.madden@mcgill.ca.
