

Giving to the History of Medicine and Health Care Program at the UofC Medical School

The History of Medicine and Health Care Program (HOMHC) at the UofC Medical School is tremendously fortunate to have a committed community of coworkers, collaborators, and supporters who create, sustain, and develop the program. The HOMC's goals are to:

- attract students and faculty from interdisciplinary backgrounds and cross-departmental affiliation to engage in and contribute to the Program's activities and events, and provide them with an inspiring and compassionate atmosphere in which to develop their educational aims, learning skills, and professional life;
- develop and expand the profile and standing of the Program within medical and interdisciplinary communities engaged in historical research and teaching of medicine and health care across Canada and abroad;
- relate to the University, the local community, and the public at large explaining and interpreting topics from the history of medicine and the life sciences, and to build bridges of understanding and contextualization regarding modern biomedical developments and respective applications in social environments;
- conduct interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Medical Faculty and beyond, by integrating views from the History and Philosophy of Science, Science and Technology Studies, Cultural and Media Studies, and various other fields bordering on questions of the body, life, health technologies, physicianship, and patient wellbeing in human societies.

Donors to the HOMHC Program can support a number of great activities from bursaries to students for research and educational purposes, the realization of local and national student conferences, research into the proud past of the University of Calgary Faculty of Medicine, the History of Medicine in Alberta, or Canada's achievements in the history of the life sciences. Our teaching, research, and outreach functions can only be developed and further augmented thanks to the generosity of our supporters.

The University of Calgary is a registered charitable organization, and charitable gifts to the program are eligible for a charitable contributions receipt. All gifts to the program are directed in their entirety to the program.

Fund Development staff would be pleased to answer any questions you may have about supporting the History of Medicine and Health Care Program. For general information on giving please click <http://wcm2.ucalgary.ca/med/about/giving/ways>

We invite you to explore our program's important activities (<http://www.homhcp.ucalgary.ca/>), make a comment or ask for information, and discover how you can help us "to create the future of health by understanding the past!"
