

UNIVERSITY OF CALGARY

How do UFlourish?

A notebook for self-reflection and self-discovery

Brought to you by

University of Calgary's Campus Mental Health Strategy, Student Wellness Services and Staff Wellness

Contents

1 Introduction

2 Seligman's
PERMA model

3 Breath exercise

4 Colouring page

5 Strategies for stress

6 Developing a self-care plan

7 Colouring page

8 Gratitude reflection

9 Colouring page

10 Colouring page

11 Storytelling with strengths

12 Goal-setting

13 Identifying connections

14 Colouring page

To print this workbook or any of these worksheets again, visit: ucalgary.ca/mentalhealth/uflourish/workbook

Explore more support and resources: ucalgary.ca/mentalhealth

you are part of a caring campus community.

This notebook uses psychologist Martin Seligman's PERMA model of well-being to reflect on practices to help us all flourish.

Flip to the next page to learn about PERMA and how it helps us understand flourishing.

The rest of the workbook prompts reflections based around this model. These reflections can be filled out in any order and done at your own pace.

Oftentimes, the act of writing things down can help us become more clear about how we're feeling, and can be a powerful tool for processing and retention.

What is Seligman's PERMA Model?

Developed by psychologist Martin Seligman, the PERMA “flourishing” model uses five elements to understand well-being: Positive emotion, Engagement, Relationships, Meaning and Achievement/Accomplishment.

Let's explore a bit further. We've defined each element of the PERMA model and given an example.

Think about how you might support yourself or others in each area.

Positive emotion	Example	Fill in your own
Feeling joy, hope and contentment	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Go for a walk• Put on a favourite song or album
Engagement	Example	Fill in your own
Feeling attached, involved and able to concentrate on activities	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Cook a favourite meal• Attend a group fitness activity
Relationships	Example	Fill in your own
Feeling connected, supported and cared about	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Catch up with a good friend• Show gratitude to a peer or colleague
Meaning	Example	Fill in your own
Feeling valued and connected to something greater than oneself	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Engage in a volunteer activity• Send a care package to a loved one who might need it
Achievement	Example	Fill in your own
Progressing towards goals, feeling capable and experiencing a sense of accomplishment	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Make a to-do list and prioritize the tasks• Set an exercise or fitness target

Let's start with the breath

Paying attention to our breath can help reduce experiences of stress and promote a sense of calm. There are many useful breathing exercises out there, but let's start with the following.

Use this anywhere at anytime.

Start here ►

inhale (count to four)

hold (count to two)

exhale (count to four)

hold (count to two)

Workbook colouring pages

These pages are placed throughout this workbook. Relax and relieve stress by shading or colouring these images.

Strategies for stress

Stress can look and impact people differently. This activity is designed for you to identify sources of stress, rate the level of control you have over each source and formulate an action plan to help you manage certain stressors.

What is stressful in your home life? e.g., finances, roommates, chores

What has helped you handle this stressor so far? _____

What is your level of control over this experience or event? Circle one. LOW MEDIUM HIGH

What are you experiencing at work or in school that is stressful? e.g., deadlines, exams, peer/colleague/supervisor

What has helped you handle this stressor so far? _____

What is your level of control over this experience or event? Circle one. LOW MEDIUM HIGH

What is stressful in your community or in the world around you? e.g., climate change, inflation, conflict

What has helped you handle this stressor so far? _____

What is your level of control over this experience or event? Circle one. LOW MEDIUM HIGH

Is there anything else that is stressful for you at this time?

What has helped you handle this stressor so far? _____

What is your level of control over this experience or event? Circle one. LOW MEDIUM HIGH

Identify the top three stressors you have the most control over:

1. _____ 2. _____ 3. _____

Reflect on what would help you manage the stressors you have the most control over:

Developing a self-care plan

Self-care can look different for everyone, but generally involves anything we do to take care of our health and well-being.

By practising regular self-care we are not only taking care of ourselves, we are strengthening our ability to care for others.

There are many ways to set up a self-care plan. We're dividing this worksheet up into: Body, Mind and Spirit

Self-care can also involve what you don't do.

Think about what boundaries you might want to establish or activity you can remove from your week to make space for something you enjoy.

	Practice to	What steps will help me maintain this activity?
Body	e.g., Prepare two healthy meals for the week	e.g., Plan simple meals that can be easily doubled
Mind	e.g., Spend one day a week away from social media	e.g., Invite a friend to take part in the social media "detox"
Spirit	e.g., Take a short walk outside in the morning before work to clear my head	e.g., Go to bed earlier and set my alarm 30 minutes ahead to make time for my walk

Gratitude reflection

Reflecting on things we are grateful for can bring up positive emotions. Practising gratitude can also create more optimism and helps us achieve our goals. Gratitude is also a strength that is positively correlated to happiness (Martin Seligman).

Utilize the prompts below to identify what you're grateful for.

The best part of my day today was:

I'm grateful for my body because:

I'm grateful for my family and/or friends because:

The thing I like most about myself is:

I'm grateful for my past because:

The resources I'm grateful to have access to are:

My favourite local public place to spend time at is:

Storytelling with strengths

We all have beliefs about ourselves that can reinforce the way we feel, think and act.

For this activity, consider your strengths.

Select three words that fit the strengths you have or have possessed in the past. If you think of others, write them in the blank boxes. If you are having a hard time choosing one, think of what a good friend or close family member would use to describe you. Now, pick one of the words and reflect on a time where you demonstrated that strength. You can journal about it, draw a timeline, or create a picture, collage or other form of creative expression.

Active	Fair	Kind
Appreciative	Dedicated	Inquisitive
Creative	Generous	Optimistic
Good listener	Protective	Helpful
Hopeful	Energetic	Curious
Spiritual	Thoughtful	Funny
Strong	Expressive	Resourceful

Write about or draw a story that illustrates the strengths you possess:

Goal-setting

Goals can help give us direction and move us towards positive change or achievement, helping us build resilience and a sense of accomplishment. In this activity, we'll set a goal that is SMART. That is: Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Relevant, and Time-bound.

The structure of a SMART goal helps us keep our goals achievable and within our abilities.

1. First, think of an area of focus to consider. This could be a regular review, limiting procrastination, preparing for exams or big presentations.
-
2. Ask yourself some questions about the focus area:
- a. What would you like to achieve?
- b. Why is it important to you?
- c. What do you want to gain from reaching the goal?
- d. What degree of control do you have over this goal?

Now make it SMART

Specific	Get specific with what your goal is e.g., Run a half marathon
Measurable	Define how you will measure your progress e.g., I will have completed the Calgary Half Marathon next summer and logged a completion time
Attainable	Can you reasonably accomplish the goal? e.g., I am already working out, have talked to a trainer and have a run schedule
Relevant	Align the goal to your values and long-term objectives e.g., I value health and fitness and would like to establish lifelong habits
Time-bound	Set a realistic end date e.g., The marathon is in September and I will have six months to train

With thanks to the Student Success Centre (SSC) for supplemental materials. The SSC provides inclusive advising and academic support for all UCalgary students: ucalgary.ca/ssc

Identifying connections

Strong social ties help us feel valued and supported, and can be strong protective factors to our well-being.

Relationships can encompass many connections we have with others, whether that be a romantic partner, a friend, a family member, a mentor, colleagues or other peers in our lives.

Think of the connections you have now that are important, ones you want to nurture, others you can actively build, what you might need from your connections and how you can support them.

People I can talk to:

e.g., Specific friends or family members

e.g., Mentor or community leader

Where I might go to build my connections:

e.g., Volunteer at an organization based around my interests or values

e.g., Group exercise

What I need from my community:

e.g., Support with grief

e.g., Help with a physical task

What I can provide my community:

e.g., Homecooked meal for a new parent

e.g., Text check-in with a long-distance friend

To print this workbook or any of these worksheets again, visit: ucalgary.ca/mentalhealth/uflourish/workbook

Explore more support and resources: ucalgary.ca/mentalhealth

UNIVERSITY OF CALGARY