We acknowledge the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta, which includes the Blackfoot Confederacy (the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai First Nations), the Tsuut’ina First Nation, the Stoney Nakoda (the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Goodstoney First Nations), and Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III.

The University of Calgary is situated on land adjacent to where the Bow River meets the Elbow River. The traditional Blackfoot name of this place is “Moh’kins’tsis.”

1. Understand the benefits of self-care and wellness
2. Explore some of your current coping behaviours—contemplate their effectiveness
3. Identify self-care and wellness strategies that are individual to you
4. Create and take your assessment and plan with you
So... what exactly is self-care?
Things that can block self care activities and increase negative well-being

Academic Culture
- Harsh inner critic
- Uncertainty

Financial pressures
- Fear of failure
- Seeking perfection

Personal Expectations
- Loss of control

Why practice self-care?

Usually when life gets hectic self-care falls in priority, but self-care:

- Helps prevent burn-out
- Helps your relationships (with yourself too!)
- Makes you more effective with reduced stress

SELF CARE PLAN

To manage stressful times, create a plan that covers 4 key areas:

1. Things to do when I’m stressed
2. People I can contact
3. Positive self talk
4. Things to avoid
Creating a plan that works for you

My Wellness Plan

Physical
- Ex: Walk at least 3 times a week
- Visit the doctor for regular visits
- Sleep at least 8 hours a night

Mental/Empotional
- Ex: Journal
- 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 -> sensory countdown

Professional
- Ex: Ask for help
- Take time off
- Celebrate successes

Financial
- Ex: Maintain budget to manage resources

Spirit
- Ex: Practice mindfulness meditation daily
- Listen to music

Relationships
- Ex. Communicate needs and wants
- Time for coffee with friends or cancel when tired

“You cannot keep giving to others if you do not give to yourself, first. It is like pouring water from a vessel: you cannot pour and pour without ever refilling it - eventually it will run dry.” Leslie K. Lobell
Through mindfulness, we can learn to shift into the being mode, where we fully focus our attention and awareness to experiences in the present moment. It can allow us to recognize our thoughts and judgments, and increase our ability to accept the present and make conscious choices on how we would like to feel and react.
