The Faculty of Humanities was created in 1976 when the partition of the Faculty of Arts and Science occurred. Through the study of languages and literature, ancient history, philosophy, and religion, students in the Humanities explore modern as well as past traditions thus gaining a fuller understanding of their place in society and the ways in which all of us shape and are shaped by our cultural circumstances.

Pattern

The Departments of the Faculty of Humanities and the designations under which they offer courses are as follows:

Department	Course Designations
English	English (ENGL)
French, Italian and Spanish	French (FREN) Italian (ITAL) Romance Studies (ROST) Spanish (SPAN)
Germanic, Slavic and East Asian Studies	Chinese (CHIN) Dutch (DTCH) German (GERM) Japanese (JPNS) Russian (RUSS) Slavic (SLAV)
Greek and Roman Studies	Greek (GREK) Greek and Roman Studies (GRST) Latin (LATI)
Philosophy	Philosophy (PHIL)
Religious Studies	Religious Studies (RELS)

The Faculty of Humanities also offers courses in Comparative Literature (COLT), Film (FILM), Hindi (HNDI), Humanities (HUMN), and Term Abroad Program (TAP).

Note: All courses in the Faculty of Humanities are in Area I.

Objectives

The Humanities are a cornerstone of education. Humanities disciplines emphasize expressive and logical communication. They aim to analyze, interpret and evaluate the most significant achievements in many of the world's cultural traditions, including those that have been marginalized. They study the interplay among past, present and future worlds, and they examine the links and ruptures between the individual and society.

Advanced practical literacy is one goal of education in the Humanities. Though founded on earlier models of education in grammar, rhetoric, poetry, history, ethics and logic, they have evolved as instruments for exploring critically the strengths and weaknesses of past and present circumstances. Students in the Humanities learn to read with discernment (often in another language), to think carefully, to make reasoned judgments, and to communicate both intelligently and effectively.

Through the learning of languages and the study of images, artifacts, and texts and their historical contexts, students in the Humanities come to understand and appreciate their own and other cultures. Through exposure to multiple points of view and diverse methodologies and ideologies, they learn how to engage in critical enquiry, which by definition involves an honest attempt to examine divergent opinions. Humanities students gain a fuller appreciation of themselves and of the ways in which all of us shape and are shaped by our cultural circumstances. Work in the Humanities is intended to expand human awareness, an end that is both valuable in itself and useful to society.

Opportunities

The Faculty of Humanities "Careers for Students" booklet may be accessed on the Faculty Website.

Student Affairs

Contact individual Humanities departments in order to obtain information on the student society in that department.

Faculty Regulations

Students in the Faculty of Humanities are governed by the academic regulations of the University as a whole (see the section of this Calendar headed "Academic Regulations"), by the regulations in this section, and by the specific requirements made by Departments for specific programs and courses (see "Program Details" later in this section and "Courses of Instruction" later in the Calendar).

Students are advised to read and consider carefully all relevant regulations and to consult the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) of Humanities, Social Sciences Building 209 (220-6798) or the Department concerned if interpretation is needed.

Admissions

New applicants should refer to "Admission Requirements" in the Academic Regulations section of this Calendar for regulations regarding University admission requirements.

Frosh and transfer students wishing to register in the Faculty of Humanities must meet minimum admission requirements as set out in the Academic Regulations section of this Calendar. All applicants for admission to the Faculty must have included English 30. See "Honours Degree with a Major Field" for admission requirements to Honours programs. All students must satisfy the Effective Writing Requirement as outlined in the Academic Regulations section of this Calendar.

Registration

First Year Students

Full-time first year students (those registered in three full-course equivalents or more) must register in at least two full-course equivalents in the Faculty of Humanities.

Until at least three full-course equivalents at the junior level have been successfully completed, a student may not register in senior courses unless their program requires it.

The programs offered by the Faculty of Humanities do not require specific preparatory courses in the first year. However, registration in Humanities 200 is strongly recommended. Students are encouraged to take a wide selection of courses in their first year. For guidance in course selection, first year students should obtain a copy of the Course Registration and Planning Guide for new students from the Office of the Registrar.

Accuracy of Registration

Students are responsible for the completeness and accuracy of their registration and for arranging their course selections to meet all program requirements as detailed in the following pages. Students should seek the advice of the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) and/or the Department of their Major. It is important that students acquaint themselves with the deadline dates for advance registration set by the University (see Registration in the Academic Regulations section of this Calendar) and allow sufficient time before these deadlines for Department and Faculty consultation and approval. Consultations with the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) are strongly recommended for those students who are registering in the final courses towards a degree. Any departure from standard requirements must receive prior authorization in writing from the Associate Dean (Student Affairs). Except with permission of the Associate Dean (Student Affairs), a student successfully completing a course without having a normal prerequisite course in the same field may not subsequently register in the prerequisite course for program credit.

Regardless of their home Faculty, students are not permitted to register in more than six full-course equivalents from any group of courses constituting the field of a major program other than that to which the student has officially been admitted.

Course Load

Five courses taken concurrently represent a normal full load. Students who have completed such a course load through the previous Fall and Winter Sessions with a grade point average of at least 3.20 will be permitted to register in six courses concurrently, but it should be stressed that extra courses represent substantial burdens and may damage overall performance. Opportunities for accelerated progress also exist through credit in Spring and Summer Sessions and through credits obtained "by special assessment."

Course Work

Senior Courses Requiring No Prerequisite

Withdrawal from Courses

Students will not be permitted to withdraw more than once from a particular course. Students will be required to withdraw if they have accumulated a total of more than five full-course equivalent withdrawals while in attendance at the University of Calgary.

Subject to the regulations specified above, students may withdraw from a course by using Infonet. In any full or half course the withdrawal must be processed prior to the deadline specified in the Academic Schedule printed in this Calendar. Withdrawal from a course will result in the letter "W" being recorded on the transcript in lieu of a grade.

Students wishing to withdraw completely from the University should refer to the Academic Regulations section of this Calendar.

Repetition of Courses

A student may repeat a course previously failed or one in which a higher grade is sought, but will normally be permitted to repeat a particular course only once. Taking or repeating a course that is a prerequisite for a higher level course after having completed the higher level course with a grade of "C-" or better will only be allowed with the permission of both the faculty in which the student is registered and the department offering the course.

Credit "By Special Assessment"

Students are referred to the Academic Regulations section of this Calendar for University regulations on obtaining course credits "by special assessment."

Application should be made on the form headed "Permission to Take Courses by Special Assessment" and signed by the appropriate Department Head. The form should then be presented to the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) for consideration in the light of the student's background and the program regulations. Some Departments offer special assessment procedures only at particular times in the year. Students should check for deadlines with Department Offices.

A course previously failed or one in which a higher grade is sought may not be taken subsequently "by special assessment," nor may any course be attempted more than once in this way. No more than five full-course equivalents completed "by special assessment" may be counted towards a degree.

Permission to Take Course Work at Another Institution for Transfer of Credit

The Faculty of Humanities encourages its students to participate in exchange programs with another university and to seek opportunities for study abroad. Information and advice are available from departments.

A student may be given permission to take courses at another university if the proposed courses are acceptable to this Faculty and suitable for the degree program. Students with poor academic performance, such as being on probation or having a large number of withdrawals, will not be allowed such privileges.

Applications for such authorization must be made as early as possible in writing to the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) and must be accompanied by full details of the proposed courses and the total hours of instruction (machine copies of actual calendar descriptions are preferred). Students will be advised officially by letter of the acceptability of the proposed courses for transfer credit in the program and an appropriate letter will be sent to the Registrar of the other university.

It will be the responsibility of the student to ensure that an official transcript of grades is forwarded directly to the Registrar of this University in order that credit may be officially recorded.

Minor Field Option

A student may formally declare a Minor Field within the Faculty of Humanities and have this officially recorded on the transcript of record, provided that he/she successfully completes at least five and no more than six full-course equivalents in that Field including at least three at the senior level. At least half of the minimum requirement must be taken at the University of Calgary.

Students registered in the Faculty of Humanities may also complete a Minor Field in the Faculties of Communication and Culture, Continuing Education, Education, Fine Arts, Medicine, Science, Social Sciences and the Haskayne School of Business. Students should consult the Calendar section of the other faculty within which they intend to declare a Minor for the appropriate regulations.

Student Standing

Academic Standing

The academic standing of each student registered in the Faculty will be reviewed after each Winter Session, except for students who have not completed three full-course equivalents while registered in the Faculty of Humanities since their previous review; those students will retain their current standing. A student must maintain a grade point average of at least 2.00 in order to be considered in good academic standing in the Faculty of Humanities. Honours students should see further the requirements stated under "Honours Degree with Major Field" below.

Students Previously in Satisfactory Standing

Students previously in satisfactory standing:

- (a) Will retain that standing if they have achieved a grade point average of at least 2.00 on all courses taken since their previous review;
- (b) Either will be placed on probation if they have achieved a grade point average of at least 1.70 but less than 2.00 on all courses taken since their previous review or will be required to withdraw if their overall record is considered unsatisfactory (e.g., if there have been other periods of probation within the previous five years);
- (c) Will be required to withdraw from the Faculty if they have achieved a grade point average of less than 1.70 on all courses taken since their previous review.

Students Already on Probation

Students already on probation:

- (a) Will be reinstated in satisfactory standing if they have achieved a grade point average of at least 2.00 on all courses taken since their previous review;
- (b) Will be required to withdraw from the Faculty if they have achieved a grade point average of less than 2.00 on all courses taken since their previous review.
- (c) Students who are on probation when they apply for convocation will have their probation cleared if their grade point average in the courses taken since being placed on probation and required for the degree is at least 2.00.

Students placed on probation or required to withdraw from the Faculty will be so advised in writing.

Readmission

- Students who have been required to withdraw for unsatisfactory academic performance may be considered for readmission after 12 or more months have elapsed since the date of dismissal.
- Applicants must apply by the deadlines stated in the current Calendar and meet the current admission requirements of the program to which they are seeking admission.
- Applicants must attach a letter to their application which (a) offers an explanation for their previously poor record, (b) outlines their academic plans and (c) explains why they are now likely to be successful.
- Readmission is not guaranteed.

Students so readmitted must maintain a grade point average of at least 2.00 on all courses taken after readmission. Failure to do so will result in permanent dismissal from the Faculty of Humanities. Students who have twice been required to withdraw from one or more Faculties at this or any other institution will not normally be considered for admission at any time.

Dean's List

The Dean's List recognizes outstanding academic achievement of students in the Faculty. It is compiled annually at the end of the Winter Session. To be included, a student must achieve a grade point average of 3.60 or higher over all courses taken in the preceding Fall and Winter Sessions with a minimum of four and one-half full course equivalents completed. The student's transcript will record naming to the Dean's List.

Students completing a required Co-operative Education Work Term in either a Fall or Winter Session will be eligible for inclusion on the Dean's List, provided they have completed 2.5 full-course equivalents with a grade point average of at least 3.60 over all courses taken in the complementary Fall or Winter Session, and have passed the Work Term.

Students registered in one of the Faculty of Humanities' combined degree programs (Engineering, Fine Arts, Haskayne School of Business, Science, Social Sciences) will be eligible to be placed on the Faculty of Humanities Dean's List if they have completed at least four and one-half full-course equivalents and if their grade point average over all courses taken during the preceding Fall and Winter Sessions in question is at least 3.60.

Graduation

BA with a Major Field

Course Requirements

The Faculty requires that students complete an approved program equivalent to 20 full courses, with a grade point average of at least 2.00. Although there are no specific time limitations, a student is expected to make every effort to complete the program within 10 consecutive 12-month periods. The program must include the following components:

- At least 12 full-course equivalents at the senior level (i.e., numbered 300 or above).
- Not fewer than seven (eight for English, French, Greek and Roman Studies, History and Philosophy of Science, Religious Studies and Applied Ethics, Religious Studies and Spanish) and not more than 10 full-course equivalents in the Major Field (except for a BA Major in General Humanities), and not more than one full "D" or "D+" grade in these courses. The grade point average for courses in the Major Field must be at least 2.00. At least half the courses counting toward the Major must be taken at the University of Calgary.
- At least four full-course equivalents offered by faculties other than the Faculty of Humanities.
- At least one-half full-course equivalent in Logic (Philosophy 275, 279, or 377) or in Mathematics (any course offered by the Department of Mathematics and Statistics: Mathematics, Pure Mathematics, Applied Mathematics, Statistics, Actuarial Science).
- At least two full-course equivalents in each of two of three areas - A. Scientific Thought, B. Creative and Artistic Expression, C. Social Analysis. In each area, at least one full-course equivalent must be at the 300 level or above. (See section below "Areas for BA Degrees in the Faculty of Humanities" for courses in each area.)

Note: Students may not use courses in the major field to fulfill requirement (e).

Note: A course in Mathematics taken to fulfill (d), above, may also count towards Area A.

- At least two full-course equivalents in language and/or culture, with at least one full-course equivalent at the 300 level or above.

Students are encouraged to meet this requirement by focusing on an integrated area of study including one or more of the following:

- Any language other than English taught at the University (Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, Hindi, Italian, Japanese, Latin, Native Languages, Russian, Sanskrit, Spanish, Tibetan). Transferable language courses taught at other recognized institutions will also be accepted.
- Any course offered by the Departments of French, Italian and Spanish and Germanic, Slavic and East Asian Studies or equivalent.
- Any course in Comparative Literature or equivalent.

Distinction

The notation "With Distinction" will be entered in the permanent record and on the graduation parchment of a student who completes a Major program with a grade point average of at least 3.60 over the last 15 full-course equivalents taken for the degree. In cases in which the "last 15" must include some but not all of a group of courses taken concurrently, the selection will be made in the manner most advantageous to the student. A student who has taken part of his/her course work at another university or who has transferred into the Faculty at a relatively late stage may be granted a degree "With Distinction" at the discretion of the Faculty.

BA With a Double Major

Double Major programs are subject to the same Faculty graduation requirements as programs with a Major Field. Students must complete all graduation requirements set by each Faculty and Department. Therefore, candidates must successfully complete at least seven full-course equivalents in each Major Field. Note that not all double majors can be completed within the 20 full-course equivalent requirement for a BA degree. Students interested in obtaining a degree with a Double Major must obtain approval from the Associate Dean (Student Affairs). Where the second Major Field is outside the Faculty of Humanities, permission must be obtained from both Faculties.

Honours Degree with a Major Field

A principal aim of an Honours program is to prepare the student in the field of major interest for entry to higher degree programs. High standards of performance are required. Late transfer into an Honours program is possible, but, depending on the course work already taken, it may be difficult for the student to satisfy all Departmental requirements within the minimum total program of 20 full-course equivalents.

Honours programs are more strictly specified than ordinary Major programs. Precise specifications for Honours programs should be ascertained from "Details of Courses" below and from the relevant Departments.

Admission

In addition to the general admission requirements of the Faculty, students wishing to be considered for admission into an Honours program must have completed at least five full-course equivalents and must have achieved a cumulative GPA of at least 3.00 over all courses completed.

Departments may set additional requirements.

Applications are referred to Departments for their recommendation before being considered by the Faculty. Students applying for admission to the Honours program should make requests for changes of program through the Infonet.

Applications will only be considered at the time of Fall Session registration and must be made by the June 1 deadline.

In order to avoid complications or interruptions in their programs, students should be aware that:

- All Honours candidates must meet with the appropriate undergraduate student advisor for approval of their course registration.
- The Honours candidate must achieve a grade point average of at least 3.15 in the courses taken in the Major Field in each succeeding pair of sessions.

Course Requirements

The provisions listed in "Course Requirements" for "BA with a Major Field" apply equally to Honours candidates, except that the candidate's Department will require no fewer than nine and no more than 12 full-course equivalents from the Major Field.

Other Requirements

Degrees with Honours are awarded in two classes:

- (a) Honours will be awarded if the Honours candidate achieves a grade point average of at least 3.30 in the courses taken in the Major Field, and if the candidate meets any additional Departmental requirements as stated in the Calendar.
- (b) First Class Honours will be awarded if the Honours candidate achieves a grade point average of at least 3.70 in the courses taken in the Major Field, and if the candidate meets any additional Departmental requirements as stated in the Calendar.

Note: Once accepted into an Honours program, students who fail to attain the necessary grade point average or fail to fulfill requirements specific to the Honours degree may be recommended for graduation and granted the BA degree with a Major Field provided they have completed all other degree requirements.

Honours Degree with a Double Major

Students interested in obtaining an Honours degree with a Double Major must obtain the approval of the Associate Dean (Student Affairs).

Combined Degree Program Within the Faculty of Humanities

The program, offered by the Faculty of Humanities, leads to the awarding of two BA degrees, and requires the completion of a minimum of 25 full-course equivalents.

Admission

Students may apply to the combined degree program by declaring two Major Fields (including Honours) with the Faculty of Humanities as described in this Calendar.

Course Requirements

Successful completion of all the courses required for graduation for a "BA with a Major Field" or "Honours Degree with a Major Field" in each of the selected Majors, as listed in this Calendar, is required. Faculty and Departmental requirements for entrance and graduation in both programs with a Major Field must be met.

The program requires careful selection of courses to complete all requirements of the Faculty. Interested students are urged to contact the Student Affairs office of the Faculty of Humanities for advice in choosing their first-year courses.

Other Requirements

It will be possible for students to opt out of the combined degree program until the end of their third year and complete a single degree program in four years. Students should note, however, that if courses have been unevenly distributed between the two Majors, more than four years may be required to complete the degree.

Second Baccalaureate Degree With a Major Field

Admission

Students who have an approved degree (BSc, BEd, etc.) may proceed to a second baccalaureate degree by completing the requirements for that degree under the following conditions:

- (a) Up to 12 full-course equivalents completed in the first degree program and approved for credit in the Faculty may be counted towards the second degree.
- (b) Of the additional courses required, at least five must be taken on this campus with a minimum of four senior full-course equivalents in the Faculty of Humanities.
- (c) The additional courses taken at the University of Calgary must include at least half of the minimum requirements of the new Major Field.

On request, or on receipt of a formal application for admission to a second degree program, the Faculty will provide a detailed assessment of previous courses which can be applied to the degree and establish the remaining requirements in each individual case.

Other Requirements

The After Degree may be awarded "With Distinction" at the discretion of the Faculty if a GPA of at least 3.60 is achieved over all the additional courses required together with applicable courses (maximum seven) from the first degree.

Second Baccalaureate Degree With Honours in a Major Field

Students who have received one or more approved undergraduate degrees may apply for admission to a second baccalaureate degree program with Honours.

Other Requirements

Applicants for such a program are subject to the following requirements in addition to those specified above for "Second Baccalaureate Degrees With a Major Field":

- (a) The regulations governing program content and the standards of performance for the corresponding degree with Honours must be satisfied.
- (b) The consent of the Department must be obtained.
- (c) The degree may be awarded as First Class Honours if a GPA of at least 3.70 in all courses taken in the Major Field (whether taken for the first or the second degree) is combined with a corresponding GPA of 3.70 in all courses taken for the second baccalaureate and if the candidate meets all requirements of the Department.

Junior Courses

One full-course equivalent of English and/or Comparative Literature will normally constitute the prerequisite for 300-level English courses.

The following 300-level courses have no prerequisites: English 329, 385, 387, 389, 393, 395, 399.

Students may not receive credit for more than one full-course equivalent of 200-level English. The only exception is when English 240 is taken after another 200-level English course or courses, in which case the student may receive credit for up to two full-course equivalents in 200-level English.

English Composition (ENCO) courses do not count towards the major field in English.

Students with credit in senior English courses that have prerequisites may not normally take 200-level English courses, except English 240.

Students should note that English 240 is a required course in the Foundation Program for English Majors, Minors and Honours students and is felt by the Department to constitute the best foundation for concentrated work in senior courses in English and in interdisciplinary Humanities majors.

Foundation Program

English 240, English 302, and English 354 constitute the Foundation Program for English Majors, Minors and Honours students. Completion of the senior courses (English 302 and 354) of the Foundation Program is the standard prerequisite for 400-level courses. A student who has not completed English 302 and 354 will be admitted to a 400- or 500-level course if the Department judges the student's level of literary or other preparation sufficient for the demands of the course. English 240 should normally be taken within a student's first five full-course equivalents; English 302 and 354 should normally be taken within a student's first 10 full-course equivalents.

Creative Writing Concentration

The designation "Creative Writing Concentration" will appear on the transcripts of Majors who have completed at least three full-course equivalents from English 364, 366, 494, 496, and 598, and of Honours students who have completed at least three full-course equivalents chosen from these courses or two full-course equivalents and English 504 with a creative writing project. Students may substitute Drama 371, 471, 572.01 or 572.29 for up to one full-course equivalent counting towards the creative writing concentration. (Admission into these creative writing courses is selective and is based on the submission of a portfolio of the student's work.)

Students intending to proceed to graduate study in English should be aware that the Honours degree is felt by the Department to constitute the best preparation for such study.

BA Honours in English

Introduction

Honours students should be aware that exposure to a wide variety of literary periods, genres, and critical approaches, as well as to different national literatures, is the best preparation for graduate work. Students should consult the Department to choose courses that represent this diversity.

Admission

See "Faculty Regulations – Admissions" and other requirements under "Faculty Regulations – Graduation," above.

Requirements

A grade point average of at least 3.00 and Departmental recommendation will be required for students entering the Honours program. A student who decides to apply for Honours should at all stages consult closely with the Department about the choice of courses. (An appointment may be arranged by calling the Department at 220-5470.) The student must take at least 10 and no more than 12 full-course equivalents in English.

3. At least four full-course equivalents in English at the 400 level, including at least one full-course equivalent chosen from English 401, 403, 404, 408, 414, 430, and at least one full-course equivalent chosen from English 440, 444, 446, 450, 462. Students transferring from other institutions may satisfy part or all of this requirement with appropriate period survey transfer courses — contact the Department for information.

4. At least two full-course equivalents in English at the 500 level, including English 504. Students must consult with the English Department for information and advice by March of the year in which they plan to register in English 504.

English courses for the Honours degree beyond these specific requirements may be selected from 300-, 400-, or 500-level English courses.

(Students may not receive credit for more than one full-course equivalent of 200-level English. The only exception is when English 240 is taken after another 200-level English course or courses, in which case the student may receive credit for up to two full-course equivalents in 200-level English.)

Up to one full-course equivalent selected from the following list may be counted towards the major field: Comparative Literature 405, 517; Drama 371, 471, 572.01, 572.29; Humanities 405; Linguistics 321. These courses may not, however, be used to satisfy requirements 1-4 above.

Not every senior course will necessarily be offered every year. Current course offerings, including the specific topics to be taught in 500-level topics courses, are listed in the master timetable, and more detailed information is available from the Department.

Other Requirements

Students must satisfy the general Faculty graduation requirements for their program. See "Faculty Regulations – Graduation," above.

In addition to the English courses required for the Honours degree, students must also complete the following requirements:

1. Two full-course equivalents in a language other than English. One full-course equivalent must be at the 300 level or above.

The only exception is when English 240 is taken after another 200-level English course or courses, in which case the student may receive credit for up to two full-course equivalents in 200-level English.)

Note: See also "Minor Field Option" under "Faculty Regulations – Course Work," above.

BA and BA Honours in French Co-operative Education ProgramsIntroduction

The Co-operative Education programs are five-year degree programs which include 16 months of supervised work experience in various private, public or government agencies. Students who wish to enter the French Co-operative Education program are urged to discuss as early as possible their pre-admission course selection with the Department of French, Italian and Spanish.

Admission

Students are normally required to apply to Career Services five months prior to their first proposed work term. Application deadlines are December 1 (for a work term starting in May), May 1 (for a work term starting in September), and September 1 (for a work term starting in January). Students who are in doubt about their admissibility to co-operative programs should contact Career Services as early as possible.

Students must have successfully completed a minimum of eight and a maximum of 12 and one-half full-course equivalents appropriate to their degree program, before commencing the first co-operative education placement. The minimum GPA for admission to the co-operative education option is 3.00 for students in a Major program and 3.30 for students in an Honours program.

Students should refer to the Co-operative Education section of this Calendar for specific regulations pertaining to Co-operative Education programs.

Requirements

In order to receive a Co-operative Education designation on the parchment at Convocation, students must complete the following four courses in addition to the regular requirements for the BA or BA Honours in French degree program: Co-operative Education 517.01, 517.02, 517.03, 517.04.

Regulations

In addition to the Faculty and Departmental regulations governing Honours and Major programs and the regulations governing Co-operative Education programs, the following regulations apply. A minimum grade point average of 3.00 must be maintained for continuation in the BA and 3.30 for continuation in the BA Honours degree program. In the Co-operative Education program students must take all study and work sessions consecutively and be registered as full-time students. Students must complete the same courses and the same number of courses as required for a student completing the traditional BA or BA Honours degree program in French; the Co-operative Education courses are in addition to these French course requirements. Upon completion of each work term, students must present a work term report to the Departmental Co-operative Education Representative.

Once admitted to the Co-operative Education program, students must take a minimum of three courses per study session. Throughout the program, study sessions and work terms must be taken in alternation until a minimum of four work terms have been completed. All co-operative education programs must end with a study session.

Germanic, Slavic and East Asian Studies

Department Regulations

Degrees Offered

BA in German

BA Honours in German

Minor in German

BA in Russian

BA Honours in Russian

Minor in Russian

Minor in Chinese

Minor in Japanese

The Department of Germanic, Slavic and East Asian Studies offers instruction with an intercultural focus in the fields of German, Russian, Chinese and Japanese as well as courses in Dutch and Slavic.

Detailed information and advice is available on the Department website (<http://gsea.ucalgary.ca/beta/>)

Students should choose a first half course at a level corresponding to their previous knowledge of the subject. Those with no previous instruction normally begin with German 202, Russian 201, Chinese 205 or Japanese 205. Those with German 30 or Russian 30 should enroll in German 221 or Russian 301 respectively. In cases of doubt the student should seek the advice of the Department and is generally encouraged to do so at all stages of the program of study.

Advanced Placement

German-, Russian-, Chinese- or Japanese-speaking students or students with more than matriculation in these languages must consult the Department to be placed in a course corresponding to their ability. Permission to register or remain in a particular language course can be refused if the Department deems that the student's knowledge exceeds the level of that course. Students are advised that misrepresenting their level of knowledge in the language of the course constitutes academic dishonesty and will be dealt with as such. Native speakers are not eligible to take language courses by special assessment or to receive advanced credit for them.

Enrollment in Chinese courses involves a formal placement process. All students seeking entry into Chinese courses who have not previously taken a course in Chinese at the University of Calgary must obtain, complete and return a Placement Application form available from Craigie Hall, room C205.

Based on the information provided in the Placement Application Form (see above), students will receive notification from the Chinese Program Adviser to appear for an oral interview at a designated time, and/or the written placement test.

- Written placement tests are scheduled to take place in Craigie Hall C105 at 13:30 on the last Thursday in April and the last Thursday in August. For information about placement tests call 220-5293.
- There is a $20.00 fee for writing the Placement Test.
- No one will be permitted to apply for placement more than once.
- No written placement tests will be administered outside this official schedule.

The Chinese Program Committee determines the appropriate course placement for each student. Placement results will be posted within the Department (or students may telephone 220-5293). Because registration approval is given after each test date, students should be aware that individual courses may be full before the August test date.

- Permission to register or remain in a particular language course can be refused if the Department judges that the student's knowledge exceeds the level of that course.
- Native speakers are not eligible to take language courses by special assessment or to receive advanced credit for them.
- Completion of Chinese 205 and/or 207 as a transfer course does NOT exempt a student from taking the GSEA placement test.

Credit by Special Assessment

Students seeking credit by special assessment should consult the Department regarding courses available for credit in this manner.

BA in Religious Studies and Applied Ethics

The Department of Philosophy offers instruction in the Field of Philosophy only.

Advice and information about Philosophy courses and programs may be obtained from any member of the Department's Undergraduate Committee (the Department Office can arrange appointments). Detailed course descriptions for individual courses and, where appropriate, for the different sections of a single course, are available from the Department Office.

BA in Philosophy Program

Introduction

Those choosing Philosophy as their Major Field of concentration are reminded that an appropriate competence in the Field can only be the result of a suitable selection of courses within the major areas of Philosophy. In particular, the Department feels strongly that a student well trained in the Field should have a familiarity with contemporary analytical procedures, with the foundations of formal logic and with at least some of the major classical figures of Western Philosophy.

Admission

Students considering Philosophy as a possible Major Field are recommended to begin with Philosophy 201 or 249 or one of 301, 303, 305 (upper-year students).

Students majoring in Philosophy should ensure that they seek departmental advice before each registration. Since many philosophical problems have their origins in other non-philosophical disciplines, students should seek advice not only about which philosophy courses to take but also about which non-philosophy courses might most benefit them. Advice may be obtained from members of the Departmental Undergraduate Committee.

See "Faculty Regulations – Admissions" and other requirements under "Faculty Regulations – Graduation," above.

Requirements

Except with the written permission of the Department, students majoring in Philosophy must fulfill the following requirements:

With departmental approval, other (typically higher-level) courses dealing with similar topics may be substituted for those listed. It may not be possible to teach all of these courses every year, a fact students should bear in mind when planning their programs.

Regulations

Should a student in consultation with a departmental advisor and with the formal approval of the Department determine an alternative set of required courses for a departmentally acceptable program in Philosophy, the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) shall be so informed and completion of these courses shall be required for the granting of the degree. This determination, with all approvals, must be completed prior to the student's starting his/her 11th half course in the program (and by the preceding May 28, if the 11th half course is to be started in September).

Credit by Special Assessment

Students seeking credit by special assessment should consult the Department regarding courses available for credit in this manner.

Other Requirements

In the final year of the Honours program the student must take Philosophy 590 (Honours Thesis). This will require the preparation of an Honours Thesis under close departmental supervision. In addition to the academic requirements, the Honours Thesis grade must be "A" or "A-" if the Department is to recommend the candidate for First Class Honours, and must be at least "B-" if the candidate is to be recommended for Honours.

The Honours Thesis, in suitable form, is to be submitted by the first day of the final examinations scheduled by the Registrar in the Winter Session.

A copy of the thesis, in a binding specified by the Department, is to be prepared for the Departmental Library.

Students should bear in mind the Faculty requirements concerning the general distribution of courses.

See "Faculty Regulations – Graduation," above.

Philosophy as a Minor Field

The study of Philosophy can deepen and enrich understanding of a variety of other disciplines. The courses to be included in a Minor will vary from student to student, so it is important that students seek advice from the Department. A minor in Philosophy requires at least five full-course equivalents in Philosophy, of which three or more must be at the senior level.

Some examples of courses which would usefully supplement majors in various areas:

BA and BA Honours in Philosophy Co-operative Education Programs

Introduction

The Co-operative Education programs are five-year degree programs which include 16 months of supervised work experience in various private and governmental agencies. Students who wish to enter the Philosophy

Co-operative Education program are urged to discuss their pre-admission course selection with the Department of Philosophy as early in their program as possible.

Admission

Students apply to Career Services by one of three application deadlines: May 1 (for a work term starting in September), September 1 (for a work term starting in January), or December 1 (for a work term starting in May).

Students must have successfully completed at least eight full-course equivalents appropriate to their degree program before commencing the first co-operative education placement. The minimum grade point average for admission to the Philosophy Co-operative Education program is 2.70. Prospective Honours students should be aware of the admission requirements for Honours.

Students should refer to the Co-operative Education section of this Calendar for specific regulations pertaining to Co-operative Education programs.

Requirements

Students must complete the following four courses in addition to the regular requirements for the BA or BA Honours in Philosophy degree program: Co-operative Education 519.01, 519.02, 519.03, 519.04

Regulations

In addition to the Faculty and Departmental regulations governing Honours and Majors programs and the regulations governing Co-operative Education programs, the following regulations apply. A minimum grade point average of 2.70 must be maintained for continuation in the BA and 3.00 for continuation in the BA Honours degree program. In the Co-operative Education program students must take study and work sessions consecutively and be registered full time. The Co-operative Education courses are in addition to the normal requirements for the BA or BA Honours degree program in Philosophy. Students must complete the same required courses and number of courses as required for a student completing the traditional BA or BA Honours degree program. Upon completion of each work term, the student must present a work term report to the Departmental Co-operative Education Representative.

BA in History and Philosophy of Science

Introduction

The major in History and Philosophy of Science is offered jointly by the Department of History and the Department of Philosophy. Students wishing to enroll in this program should consult the program advisor or a departmental undergraduate advisor.

Admission

Students may register for this major in either the Faculty of Humanities or the Faculty of Social Sciences. For the Major, courses constituting the field of History and Philosophy of Science include all those listed below under "Requirements." Students are subject to all graduation regulations of the Faculty in which they are registered except where otherwise specified.

See also "Faculty Regulations - Admissions" and other requirements under "Faculty Regulations - Graduation" above.

Note: Students in the Faculty of Humanities may use courses in the major field to satisfy Faculty of Humanities breadth requirements (in particular Areas A and C; See Calendar section "Faculty Regulations - Graduation").

Students seeking admission to the program should note that although neither Pure Mathematics 30 nor 30-level science subjects are required for admission into the Faculty of Humanities, students are required to complete three full-course equivalents in a Science. Incoming students, therefore, should ensure that they have the appropriate high school 30/31 courses to support their intended science concentration.

Requirements

Students intending to major in History and Philosophy of Science are encouraged in their first year to enroll in Philosophy 201, 279, and/or History 201, and in introductory courses in the sciences.

Students majoring in History and Philosophy of Science must take at least eight full-course equivalents from the following list:

1. History of Science (at least 2 full-course equivalents):

5. Research Seminar (.5 full-course equivalent): In their final year, students take Philosophy 517, Topics in the History and Philosophy of Science. This integrative seminar allows students to synthesize their training in History and Philosophy of Science and bring it to bear on a particular issue in the history and/or philosophy of science. This course may be repeated for credit. If a student only takes it once, it cannot be used to count toward satisfying requirement 2. Philosophy of Science.

6. Major Options: Additional courses from the following list to bring the total number of courses to eight full-course equivalents in the major field.

Anthropology 461, Computer Science 409, Economics 483, English 393, Greek and Roman Studies 321, History 419, 427, 479, 511, 541 (decimalized, may be repeated for credit), Psychology 305, Religious Studies 397, Science, Technology and Society 327

Note: Some courses in Archaeology, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geography, Geology and Geophysics, and Psychology are restricted to majors in those programs or have other enrollment restrictions applied to them. History and Philosophy of Science majors wishing to take restricted courses in these programs may need to be registered in a combined degree with a major in the relevant program. Note also that in some programs, fulfilling all the prerequisites for some 400-level courses will require more than three full-course equivalents. Please consult this Calendar and the Master Timetable for course prerequisites and restrictions.

Language (1 full-course equivalent): Two half courses in any one second language

Religious Studies Department Regulations

Degrees Offered

BA in Religious Studies

BA Honours in Religious Studies

Minor in Religious Studies

BA and BA Honours in Religious Studies Co-operative Education Programs

BA in Religious Studies and Applied Ethics

BA Honours in Classical and Early Christian Studies

Introduction

The Department of Religious Studies seeks to foster an understanding of the wide variety of religions that have influenced the development of human cultures and that continue to be powerful forces in today's world. Courses in the Department examine religious worldviews and their associated texts and practices, movements and institutions, as they appear now and as they have developed over time in many cultures of the world. The field of Religious Studies is multicultural, i.e., religions from all over the world are the subject of study, including the ancient traditions of Hinduism, Buddhism, Taoism, Confucianism, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, as well as religious movements of more recent origin. Religious Studies is also multidisciplinary, which means that religion is studied with the use of methods and theories from various disciplines, including history, philosophy, sociology, psychology, literary theory, and feminist theory.

Courses in the Department are divided into three streams: Western Religions, Eastern Religions, and the Nature of Religion. The Table of Streams (located before the Religious Studies courses in the "Courses of Instruction" section of this Calendar) lists the course offerings of the Department according to stream.

BA in Religious Studies

Admission

Students considering Religious Studies as a major field are recommended to begin with Religious Studies 201 or 273, 203 and/or 205.

See "Faculty Regulations – Admissions" and other requirements under "Faculty Regulations – Graduation," above.

Requirements

A major requires completion of eight to ten full-course equivalents in Religious Studies which must include the following:

1. Two full-course equivalents from each of the three streams of study. (See the Table of Streams located before the Religious Studies courses in the Courses of Instruction section of this Calendar.)
2. At least two full-course equivalents at the 400/500 level, including at least one half course in the Western or Eastern stream.
3. Religious Studies 377, which does not count toward any stream.
4. Religious Studies 437 or 447, which counts as a course in the Nature of Religion stream.
5. Religious Studies 577: the topic chosen for the Senior Project will determine the stream in which this course will be counted in a student's program.

Other Requirements

Religious Studies majors are required to declare one of the three streams of study as their area of concentration. A student may define a more narrow focus of study within a stream or thematically across streams. Majors are strongly advised to consult with the Department's Undergraduate Advisor sometime during or before their third year of study and to submit a written declaration of their research concentration within the field of Religious Studies. Options for concentration include one of the three streams or a focus within or across the streams.

Students are strongly advised to include in their programs relevant language courses (e.g., Classical Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Arabic, Sanskrit, Tibetan, Classical Chinese, Japanese, French, German) and relevant courses from other disciplines. Language courses related to a student's program of study in Religious Studies, whether taken inside or outside the Department, may be counted as part of the eight full-course equivalents in Religious Studies. Language courses from other departments must receive approval from the Department's Undergraduate Advisor to be counted toward the major field requirements.

Early in their programs, students should consult with the Undergraduate Advisor in the Department of Religious Studies for guidance in selecting both required Religious Studies courses and appropriate courses from other disciplines.

In planning their programs, students should bear in mind that language courses and some senior courses are not offered every year.

Students should be aware of Faculty requirements as well as Departmental requirements. See "Faculty Regulations – Graduation—BA with a Major Field," above.

Credit by Special Assessment

Students seeking credit by special assessment should consult the Department regarding courses available for credit in this manner.

BA Honours in Religious Studies

Admission

Admission to the Honours program requires a grade point average of at least 3.00 and a recommendation to the Dean by the Department of Religious Studies.

See "Faculty Regulations – Admissions" and "Faculty Regulations – Graduation – Honours Degree with a Major Field – Admission," above.

Students wishing to enter the Honours program in Religious Studies should include Religious Studies 201 or 273, 203 and 205 early in their programs.

Requirements

An Honours degree requires completion of ten to twelve full-course equivalents in Religious Studies, which must include the following:

1. Two full-course equivalents from each of the three streams of study. (See the Table of Streams located before the Religious Studies courses in the Courses of Instruction section of this Calendar.)

2. At least three full-course equivalents at the 400/500 level, including at least one half course in the Western or Eastern stream.
3. Religious Studies 377, which does not count toward any stream.
4. Religious Studies 437 or 447, which counts as a course in the Nature of Religion stream.
5. Religious Studies 590: the topic chosen for the Honours Thesis will determine the stream in which this course will be counted in a student's program.

Other Requirements

Honours students in Religious Studies are required to declare one of the three streams of study as their area of concentration. A student may define a more narrow focus of study within a stream or thematically across streams. Honours students are strongly advised to consult with the Department's Undergraduate Advisor sometime during or before their third year of study and to submit a written declaration of their research concentration within the field of Religious Studies. Options for concentration include one of the three streams or a focus within or across the streams.

By the beginning of a student's final year in the Honours program, a reading knowledge of a language other than English relevant to the topic of the Honours Thesis is normally required. Students may fulfill this requirement by completing at least one full-course equivalent of a language other than English. Language courses related to a student's program of study in Religious Studies, whether taken inside or outside the Department, may be counted as part of the ten required full-course equivalents in Religious Studies. Language courses from other departments must receive approval from the Department's Undergraduate Advisor to be counted toward the major field requirements.

The Honours Thesis is written in Religious Studies 590, usually during the final year of a student's program, under the close supervision of a member of the Department. At the end of the year, the student defends the thesis before a committee that consists of three faculty members, of which normally at least two are members of the Department. A grade of at least "B" must be obtained on the Honours Thesis if the candidate is to be awarded the Honours Degree. The Honours Thesis grade must be "A" or "A-" for the Department to recommend the candidate for First Class Honours.

The Honours Thesis in suitable form is to be submitted by the first day of the final examinations scheduled by the Registrar in the Winter Session.

Early in their programs, students should consult with the Undergraduate Advisor in the Department of Religious Studies for guidance in selecting required Religious Studies courses, language courses, and appropriate courses from other disciplines. Relevant courses in allied fields such as Philosophy, History, Sociology, Anthropology, and Greek and Roman Studies are strongly recommended.

In planning their programs, students should bear in mind that some senior courses are not offered every year.

Students should be aware of Faculty requirements as well as Departmental requirements. See "Faculty Regulations – Graduation – Honours Degree with a Major Field," above.

Minor Program in Religious Studies

The Minor requires a minimum of five full-course equivalents in Religious Studies with at least one full-course equivalent from each of the three streams.

See also "Minor Field Option" under "Faculty Regulations – Course Work," above.

BA and BA Honours in Religious Studies Co-operative Education Programs

Introduction

The Co-operative Education programs are five-year programs which include 16 months of supervised work experience in various private and government agencies. Minor in Medieval, Renaissance and Reformation Studies

Introduction

The Minor allows for the study of cultural phenomena in their social context and historical unfolding from late Antiquity to the Early Modern Era (e.g., literature, religion, philosophy, music, drama, and art). At the same time, it permits specialization in one specific phenomenon, era, culture or society. For example, specific courses may be combined to create a specialization in Renaissance Italy or Medieval Thought.

The Minor is intended to complement Major programs in related fields. It offers an integrated course of study which enhances the learning experience and promotes a cross-cultural understanding of a formative age in European civilization. Desirable for students contemplating graduate level work in related fields.

The Minor is composed of at least five full-course equivalents of which three must be at the senior level, to a maximum of six full-course equivalents.

Admission

Students intending to minor in Medieval, Renaissance and Reformation Studies must consult with the Associate Dean (Student Affairs), Faculty of Humanities for selection and approval of the courses appropriate to the Minor.

Combined Programs

Combined BA or BFA (Fine Arts)/BA (Humanities) Program

The program, sponsored jointly by the Faculties of Fine Arts and Humanities, leads to the BFA and BA degrees, or two BA degrees, and requires the completion of a minimum of 25 full-course equivalents. Students pursuing this program may enter the combined degree program in year one in either faculty. At that time, the student will declare a Major Field within the Faculty of Humanities in addition to the Major within the Faculty of Fine Arts. All admission requirements for both Faculties must be satisfied in order to qualify for the combined degree program. At least one half of the 25 full-course equivalents must be taken at the University of Calgary. Program details are listed in the Faculty of Fine Arts section of this Calendar.

Combined BComm/BA (Humanities) Program

The five-year program leads to both the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Commerce degrees. The program requires careful selection of courses to complete all requirements of the two Faculties. Interested students are urged to contact the Associate Dean (Student Affairs) of Humanities and the Assistant Dean (Undergraduate) of Haskayne School of Business for advice in choosing their first-year courses.

Students must satisfy the admission requirements of both Faculties. The BA in Humanities portion of the program requires that students complete the departmental requirements for the Humanities Major (either 7 or 8 full-course equivalents) and a minimum of 8.5 full-course equivalents of courses from the Faculty of Humanities with a minimum GPA of 2.00. No more than one full "D" or "D+" grade may be counted towards the Major field. At least one half of the 25 full-course equivalents must be taken at the University of Calgary. Students pursuing this program may enter the combined degree program in year one in either faculty. Up to the end of year three, students may opt out of the combined degree program and complete the Humanities degree program in one additional year. Program details are listed in the Haskayne School of Business section of this Calendar.

Combined BSc (Engineering)/BA (Humanities) Program

The five year program leads to both the Bachelor of Science in Engineering and the Bachelor of Arts degrees. A Major in the Humanities consisting of seven full-course equivalents is required. All specific departmental requirements for the Major must be met. For those majors normally requiring eight full-course equivalents (Ancient and Medieval History, English, French, Greek and Roman Studies, Spanish) students in the combined program must consult with the department to determine which seven full-course equivalents they are required to complete. Majors are available in English, French, German, Greek and Roman Studies, Philosophy, Religious Studies, Russian and Spanish. Students planning a Humanities Major in French or German should present Grade XII standing in that subject area.

Students will enter the Faculty of Engineering in year one and complete the two degrees under the jurisdiction of that faculty. They must satisfy the admission requirements of both Faculties. The BA in Humanities portion of the program requires that the students have a GPA of at least 2.00 in the Humanities courses and not more than one full "D" or "D+" grade in these courses. At least half the courses counting towards the Humanities Major must be taken at the University of Calgary. Up to the end of year two students may opt out of the combined degree program and complete the BA degree in Humanities in two additional years. Program details are listed in the Faculty of Engineering section of this Calendar.

Introduction

The program, sponsored jointly by the Faculties of Science and Humanities, leads to both the BSc and the BA degrees and requires the completion of a minimum of 25 full-course equivalents.

The Faculty of Humanities requires the successful completion of 10 full-course equivalents offered by the Faculty of Humanities of which at least seven (or in some Majors eight) and not more than 10 full-course equivalents must be in the Major Field (except for the BA Major in General Humanities). Faculty and Department requirements for graduation in a program with a Major Field must be met.
2. The Faculty of Science requires successful completion of all courses required for graduation in a program with a Major Field as listed in this Calendar.
3. Courses taken towards each of the Major Fields will be used to satisfy the requirement of the other Faculty that four full-course equivalents be taken outside the Faculty.
4. At least one full-course equivalent offered by the Faculty of Social Sciences.

- At least one full-course equivalent selected from the courses listed under Science, Technology and Society in the Faculty of Communication and Culture section of this Calendar.
- The number of junior courses taken, however distributed, must not exceed 10 full-course equivalents.

It will be possible for students to opt out of the combined degree program until the end of their third year and complete either the Humanities or Science degree program in four years. Students should note, however, that if courses have been unevenly distributed, more than four years may be required to complete the degree.
