UNIV fosters applied learning about global considerations on the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) within the contexts of Canada and Nepal. Learners will engage with key concepts of social and community development to foster a deeper understanding of the SDGs.

UNIV engages learners in an applied field study of the SDG in the context of Canada and Nepal that begins with a critical examination of the SDGs in both countries. The course will be delivered entirely online. Drawing from the multisensory recordings of students enrolled in SOWK 557.45 or UNIV 501.72, learners will acquire practice-based, theoretical and empirical knowledge about the SDGs in global contexts. Centralizing anti-oppressive theory and practices, learners are encouraged to participate in critical reflexivity and examine their perspectives on social justice and methods of achieving social change.

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Engage in critical reflection and analysis of social issues and community development in Canada and Nepal.
2. Develop their capacity to engage with participatory learning processes.
3. Develop reciprocal learning and exchange methods with social work students from the University of Calgary on site in Nepal and Southwestern State College in Nepal.
4. Enhance their knowledge about local issues in their own community and in Nepal.
6. Understand tools and approaches used to address the 2030 United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs; e.g., human rights and environmental sustainability) at a local level.
7. Apply their knowledge of SDGs in relationship to Canada and Nepal.
