Corey Keyes holds the Winship Distinguished Research Professorship at Emory University. He was a member of a MacArthur Foundation Research Network on Successful Midlife Development, and he co-chaired — with Martin Seligman, Ed Diener and Don Clifton — the First Summit of Positive Psychology held in 1999. Dr. Keyes is a founding member of the Society for the Study of Human Development, was a member of the National Academies of Science Keck Future’s Initiative on The Future of Human Healthspan. He was a contributing author to the World Health Organization’s publication entitled Mental Health Promotion Worldwide and gave the Dorosin Memorial Lecture on mental health at the 2012 American College Health Association meeting. His research introduced the scientific concept of “flourishing” and focuses on illuminating the two continua model of health and illness.
